

DON'T STOP TOBACCO.

HOW TO CURE YOURSELF WHILE USING IT.

The tobacco habit grows on a man until his nervous system is seriously affected impairing health, comfort and happiness. To quit suddenly is to sever a shock to the system, as tobacco to an inveterate user becomes a stimulant that his system continually craves. "Baco-Curo" is a scientific cure for the tobacco habit, in all its forms, carefully compounded after the formula of an eminent Berlin physician who has used it in his private practice since 1873, without a failure. It is purely vegetable and guaranteed perfectly harmless. You can use all the tobacco you want while taking "Baco-Curo." It will not only cure you, but we give a written guarantee to permanently cure any case with three boxes, or refund the money with 10 per cent. interest. "Baco-Curo" is not a substitute, but a scientific cure, that cures without the aid of will power and with no inconvenience. It leaves the system as pure and free from nicotine as the day you took your first chew or smoke.

CURED BY BACO-CURO AND GAINED THIRTY POUNDS.

From hundreds of testimonials, the originals of which are on file and open to inspection, the following is presented: Clayton, Nevada Co., Ark., Jan. 28, 1895. Eureka Chemical & Mfg. Co., La. Crosse, Wis.—Gentlemen: For forty years I used tobacco in all its forms. For twenty-five years of that time I was a great sufferer from general debility and heart disease. For fifteen years I tried to quit, but could not. I took various remedies, among others "No-To-Bac," "The Indian Tobacco Antidote," "Double Chloride of Gold," etc., etc., but none of them did me the least bit of good. Finally, however, I purchased a box of your "Baco-Curo" and it has entirely cured me of the habit for all its time, and I have increased thirty pounds in weight and am relieved from all the numerous aches and pains of body and mind. I could write a quire of paper upon my changed feelings and condition. Yours respectfully, P. H. MANNING.

OPINION OF JAMES G. BLAINE.

As there are a great many admirers of the late James G. Blaine in Tazewell county who are at present engaged in calling Democrats "Anarchists," "Populists," and other pet names, we publish the following showing the position occupied by their former idol: "I believe the struggle now going on in this country and in other countries for a single gold standard would, if successful, produce widespread disaster in and throughout the commercial world. The destruction of silver as money, and establishing gold as the sole unit of value, must have a ruinous effect on all forms of property except those investments which yield a fixed return in money. Those would be enormously enhanced in value and would gain a disproportionate and unfair advantage over every other species of property. If, as the most reliable statistics affirm, there are nearly $7,000,000,000 of coin or bullion in the world, very equally divided between gold and silver, it is impossible to strike silver out of existence as money without results that will prove distressing to millions and utterly disastrous to tens of thousands. I believe gold and silver coin to be the money of the constitution; indeed, the money of the American people anterior to the constitution, which the great organic law recognized as quite independent of its own existence. No power was conferred on congress to declare either metal should not be money. Congress has, therefore, in my judgment, no power to demonetize either. If, therefore, silver has been demonetized, I am in favor of remonetizing it. If its coinage has been prohibited, I am in favor of ordering it to be resumed. I am in favor of having it enlarged."

SENT IT TO HIS MOTHER IN GERMANY.

Mr. Jacob Esbenson, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at Des Moines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent bottles for sale by A. F. Hargrave Druggist.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY.

I have berries, grapes and peaches, a year old, fresh as when picked. I use the California Cold process, do not heat or seal the fruit, just put it up cold, keeps perfectly fresh, and cost almost nothing; can put up a bushel in ten minutes. Last week I sold directions to over 120 families; anyone will pay a dollar for directions, when they see the beautiful samples of fruit. As there are many people poor like myself, I consider it my duty to give my experience to such, and feel confident any one can make one or two hundred dollars round home in a few days. I will mail sample of fruit and complete directions, to any of your readers, for eighteen two cent stamps, which is only the actual cost of the samples, postage, etc., to me.

Mr. C. D. Youker, a well known druggist of Bowling Green, Ohio, in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says: "I take pleasure in recommending it to my customers, for I am certain that it will always please them. I sell more of it than all other kinds put together." For sale by A. F. Hargrave Druggist.

SPOONS FREE TO ALL

I read in the Christian Standard that Miss A. M. Fritz, Station A, St. Louis, Mo., would give an elegant plated hook spoon to any one sending her ten 2 cent stamps. I sent for one and found it so useful that I showed it to my friends, and made $13 in two hours, taking orders for the spoon. The hook spoon is a household necessity. It cannot slip into the dish or cooking vessel, being held in place by a hook on the back. The spoon is something housekeepers have needed ever since spoons were first invented. Any one can get a sample spoon by sending ten 2 cent stamps to Miss Fritz. This is a splendid way to make money around home.

Very truly, JEANNETTE S.

THE MASK OFF.

Bold Declarations from the Advocates of the Gold Standard.

A dispatch gives the information that the New York chamber of commerce is to inaugurate at once a campaign in favor of the single gold standard. The special committee appointed by the chamber some time ago to consider the ways and means necessary to control legislation in the interest of the British gold standard met and outlined a policy to be followed by the chamber of commerce during the coming presidential campaign.

A resolution was presented by a Mr. Schwab to the effect "that the agitation in favor of the maintenance of the present standard of value and against the free coinage of silver should be prosecuted with vigor," and was adopted. A resolution was also adopted to refer the Schwab resolution to the executive committee, with the recommendation that that committee "prepare and submit to the chamber of commerce an address inviting the co-operation of all commercial bodies and of all business men in the movement to secure the adoption by the national conventions of both parties of unequivocal declarations in favor of the maintenance of the present standard of value."

Chairman Hentz, of the special committee, told a reporter that he had been assured personally by a member of the cabinet that "he hoped there would be no straddling of the financial problem by the two great political parties, but that each party would boldly take the bull by the horns and adopt the only safe policy—that favoring the gold standard for the nation to pursue."

All this ought to be explicit enough to satisfy the people as to the real aims and purposes of the money power, and as to the real policy advocated by its agents and instruments in business and official life. It is to be observed that the New York chamber of commerce and all its connections, have decided to throw off the mask entirely. We do not perceive in the resolutions we have quoted any humorous reference to "sound" money, and as for "bimetallism," American or international, that has been thrown into the trash barrel. The contest that is now on is declared by these agents and representatives of the money power to be a contest in favor of the British gold standard and against the free coinage of silver.

It is a very hopeful sign that the New York chamber of commerce and other gold advocates have thrown aside the thin mask of international bimetallism. It is a sign that these men and elements behind them have come to the conclusion that the honest voters of the country are not stupid enough to be deceived any longer by the talk about "international bimetallism." Four years ago there was not a prominent man in the country, nor a government official, nor a candidate for office, nor a newspaper editor, who would admit that he was in favor of the single gold standard. All the arguments of the free coinage men were admitted—being, indeed, unanswerable—but the people were informed that to postpone free coinage would result in bringing about an international agreement and the reopening of the mints of Europe and this country to the free coinage of silver.

Now the money power, ready to contribute millions to a corruption fund to carry out its purposes, announces that a campaign is to be carried on to "secure the adoption by the national conventions of both great political parties of unequivocal declarations in favor of the maintenance of the present standard of value." The British gold standard that has been maintained by the issue of bonds and the saddling of more than $300,000,000 of debt on the people—the men who labor in the factories, who dig in the ground, and who earn their bread in the sweat of their brows.

The people ought to be thankful that Shylockism has arrived at that stage of its career in this country where it feels justified in throwing off the mask behind which it has carried out its sinister designs of demonetization and currency contraction, and in laying aside the cloak under which it has been parading for twenty odd years.

So there is to be no more hypocrisy and double-dealing so far as the single gold standard is concerned! To maintain that standard is the object of all the agencies of the money power, and by those who, either hypocritically or ignorantly, have been trying to deceive the honest voters of the country as to the attitude and purpose of the men who are opposed to the remonetization of silver—Atlanta Constitution.

THE LEAVEN AT WORK.

Significant Action of the English House of Commons—Favoring Bimetallism.

That the Gazette has not exaggerated the growth of bimetallism sentiment in England is proved by the significant action of the house of commons in adopting the Whitely resolution favoring international bimetallism. The importance of this step will be appreciated when it is stated that this is the first instance, since the adoption of the gold standard by Great Britain, that parliament has even considered the question of a change of monetary standards. The Associated Press report of the proceedings upon Mr. Whitely's resolution lacks the definiteness supplied by the resolution itself, which runs as follows:

"Resolved, That this house is of the opinion that the establishment of international bimetallism would be beneficial to the best interests of this country, and urges upon the government the advisability of doing all in their power to secure by international agreement a stable monetary par of exchange between gold and silver."

This resolution, which flatly repudiates the existing monometallic system of England, was adopted without division, signifying that the majority for it was so great that the monometallicists were unwilling to expose their weakness. For the same reason, probably, an amendment that had been presented insisting upon the necessity of maintenance of the gold standard was not presented.

The mover of the resolution comes from the north of England, and his attention was drawn to the currency question by the great industrial depression among his constituents. His most distinguished advocate was Mr. Balfour, first lord of the treasury and government leader in the house of commons, who, in reply to the argument of Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the leading English champion of monometallism, said that nothing could persuade him that it was in conformity with civilization and common sense that England should tolerate the present inconvenient and ruinous system. Such language from the ablest statesman in England and the second man in its government is a striking commentary on the mouthings of currency politicians in this country who assert that silver has ceased to be considered where civilization is at its zenith, and that only ignoramus and cranks advocate its use as standard money.

The history of the Whitely resolution is full of interest. It was formulated at the Paris congress of British, French and German bimetallists held early last December, for introduction in identical terms in the parliaments of the three nations. Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, was present at the time, though not as a delegate, and agreed to present the resolution to congress, giving the assurance that it would pass that body.

France is strongly committed to the doctrine of bimetallism, and the bimetallist party in Germany has been making rapid headway in the last 12 months. If in this state of the international mind, the United States should advance at one step to bimetallism, every nation in Europe would undoubtedly be quick to follow its lead, and the root of the money rambles of the world would be complete.

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY.

The Common People of the Country Seldom See Gold—They Are Familiar with Silver.

In his late speech at Kansas City ex-Gov. Holes, of Iowa, claimed that the common people favored silver—that they never saw gold, and knew but little of it, except by hearsay, but that they all knew of and handled silver. He violently opposed the payment of the national debt, or any part of it, in gold only, despite the disparity of gold and silver now, because the two metals were on a parity of sixteen to one at the time the debts were made, and he held that the credit of the United States would not be injured by making the holders accept the money due them, no matter what its intrinsic value, because their contracts read "in coin of the standard value of the United States on said July 14, 1871"—that being the date of the funding bonds. He also thought that the value of the gold dollar was being vastly increased by the actions of the United States, and held that a dollar now would buy twice as much as it would in 1873. From this, he argued that the purchasing power of the dollar itself had increased, and that the products were stationary.

In 1873, Mr. Holes said, wheat was worth $1.21 per bushel. The unneeded bullion necessary to make a silver dollar could be exchanged for substantially four-fifths of a bushel of wheat. At the present time the same grade of wheat is worth about 63 cents. "This million necessary to make a silver dollar can be exchanged now for the same amount of wheat that it could in 1873. The owner of a gold dollar in 1873 could purchase with it substantially four-fifths of a bushel of wheat. To-day he can buy with the same dollar twice as much. The farmer who owed $1,000 in 1873 and had 600 bushels of wheat, could sell it for enough to pay his debt. To-day the same farmer owing the same debt, would be compelled to sell twice as much to meet his obligations. The American tramp, the governor declared, was the product of the demonetization of silver and the establishing of the gold standard.

The Greedy Monster.

The gold standard is the ruling passion with the salt water aristocracy. It so dominates them that party, religion, national honor and sympathy for oppressed peoples struggling for the commonest rights of mankind are all cast into the fire rather than it should be endangered. With the gold standard is linked avarice and the grasping selfishness of trade—vice so overwhelming in the nature of those who have set up the golden Moloch that their earnings must not be imperiled merely to avert grave national insults nor to protect the country from great future perils. These sordid, groveling limitations of manhood are assailing congress to turn it aside from its patriotic stand for the Monroe doctrine and its sympathetic words for brave and struggling Cuba, lest war might follow from England and Spain and their profits be disturbed and the inhuman money famine be relieved.—Denver News.

Does Not Exchange.

Does the secretary of the treasury mean to leave the impression that he has been "treating silver on equality with gold" by paying a gold dollar for a silver one? If so, he is mistaken. To remove my own doubts on that subject, I have myself made a demand on the sub-treasury at New York for a gold dollar in exchange at a parity with a silver one. It was refused, and I was told that the treasury department did not exchange gold for silver.

—Sound Money, in N. Y. World.

In Union There is Strength.
Gen. Warner, the president of the American Bimetallist union, believes that in union there is strength, and that for silver there may be a non-partisan union, promising the best results. Thus, in Colorado the republicans, in the event of an unsatisfactory nominee and platform from the St. Louis convention, can vote for silver electors while maintaining their party organization.—Denver Times.

GET TOGETHER.

The Friends of Silver Must Unite If They Would Win.

Gen. A. J. Warner, president of the Bimetallist League, while recently in Denver sold to a News reporter:

"The time has passed when the silver dollar can be made idle in the old party lines. It is useless to waste time, talent and energy in making a free silver fight under gold banners. The fight for true bimetallism can win, but it must be done with the gold and silver army aligned squarely against the gold army. The rule of the gold standard means lower wages, it means that gold will constantly be going out of the country. The gold standard is a British institution, permeated through and through with British interests and predilections. The only way to restore the prosperity of this country is to re-establish the financial conditions which prevailed under the bimetallist standard. Now, there are enough voters in this country who believe in restoring the true bimetallist standard, to reap a victory if they will only come together. It appears to me, therefore, that the right course, to pursue is for all men who believe in the restoration of silver to come together in one camp. All can unite on those things upon which all agree. It is folly to attempt to unite on things upon which all do not agree. Therefore, let all men who agree upon silver unite. Set aside the tariff and all false issues. For tariff is a false issue now—the paramount issue is the financial question. The country cannot hope to prosper again until the money question is settled, and settled right."

"You are in favor, then, of the organization of an independent free silver party?" was asked of Gen. Warner.

"Well, yes; that is my idea," replied he. "But an independent free silver party can, in one sense, be a non-partisan union. If a man believes in silver and is a republican, he need not necessarily sacrifice the old principles of his party in joining the silver forces. He simply votes for silver because he deems it best for the bimetallist standard to be restored. The same can be said of a silver democrat. In the same way the populist must lay aside his many minor issues, and join the silver forces. Thus, all who agree upon silver can come together and fight a winning battle."

HOW IT WORKS.

The Experience of Mexico with Free Coinage of Silver.

H. V. Temple, manager of the Mexican bureau of information, in a recent letter said, among other things:

"The premium on gold tends to bring it to this country (Mexico). European investors, taking advantage of the premium on gold, are more willing to come here and make investments in mining, manufacturing, etc., than if this disparity between gold and silver did not exist. While doubling their capital on bringing it into Mexico, they can go into the production of articles for export which are sold for gold, as, for instance, coffee, rubber, hides, vanilla and kindred products, so that practically they double their capital and yet receive a gold interest on their investment.

"A silver basis seems to tend to the increase of a larger number of small incomes rather than a small number of larger ones."

Never Harrowed.

Napoleon was the one monarch in history that never borrowed a cent, though he carried on the most expensive wars of Europe. When he came to the throne he found France bankrupt. He sustained vast armies, he at the same time spent millions on public works, and yet, when he died, he left millions of surplus in the treasury.

ICE CREAM MADE BY A NEW PROCESS.

I have an Ice Cream Freezer that will freeze cream instantly. The cream is put into the freezer and comes out instantly, smooth and perfectly frozen. This astonishes people and a crowd will gather to see the freezer in operation and they will all want to try the cream. You can sell cream as fast as it can be made and sell freezers to many of them who would not buy an old style freezer. It is really a curiosity and you can sell from $5 to $8 worth of cream and six twelve freezers every day. This makes good profit these hard times and is a pleasant employment.
